

Personal Experience & Biography

Mark Button is a thoughtful, compassionate, and skillful attorney who focuses his practice on traffic and criminal matters. He has represented thousands of clients charged with a wide variety of offenses including DUI/DWI, Reckless Driving, Drug Possession/Distribution, Larceny, and Assault/Battery and Destruction of Property throughout the Central Virginia area. Mark takes a thorough and tactical approach to all matters and believes being proactive prior to trial is essential to success. Accordingly, he makes immediate and close connections with his clients while working tirelessly to achieve the best possible result for each of them.

Before joining The Weiland Firm, Mark maintained a solo practice prior to further sharpening his skills with a reputable defense firm in Henrico County. There, he focused exclusively on criminal matters and was consistently successful in both bench and jury trials. During that time, he developed relationships with prosecutors, judges, and court staff that allow him to position his future clients for success. Mark understands and appreciates the immediate and long-term effects of pending traffic and criminal matters. Accordingly, he takes a very personal approach to representation and puts clients at ease while also ensuring that their unique circumstances are accounted for in court.

Mark W. Button's Specialties

Prior to practicing criminal law, Mark worked in the Sales and Marketing Practice Group at a Fortune 500 tobacco company and opened the Richmond branch of a national legal staffing firm. During law school, he interned with a criminal defense firm based in Blacksburg. He graduated magna cum laude with a business degree from Virginia Tech before completing law school at the University of North Carolina.
